In presenting the third annual edition of “Who’s Who on the Air”, Ludwig Baumann attempts to introduce you a bit intimately to some of the better known radio entertainers. On the following pages you will find pictures and short stories of many of the more prominent artists of the air so that when they next arrive in your living room through your loud speaker, you will know more about what goes on behind those voices.

No group of celebrities remains so remote as do radio stars. So many of them are just voices to us. Seldom do we see their faces.

Interesting people, these leaders of the newest form of entertainment. Some were successful artists before radio claimed them. Others were restless spirits with pioneering instinct drawn to this new theatre during the early uncertain days. By their talents and perseverance they have helped to hasten the ultimate success of radio.

A few years ago radio was just a hobby—a maze of technical terms and static. Eager commuters talked glibly of variometers, condensers, and superheterodynes. Securing reasonably clear reception was such a triumph that little attention was paid to the quality of the program.

Sweeping technical developments have eliminated the sorrows and joys of the amateur. Today perfect reception is only a matter of buying any one of the standard foolproof sets. Countless programs of genuine merit wait for your turn of the dial.

These actors of the air have had the pleasure of meeting you through your fan mail, now you meet them in an intimate way.

The Voice of Broadway

By Louis Sobol

(With Richy)

Elmer Rice and Arden were putting on a show at the Palace. The audience was a family crowd, but I could see the police eyeing everyone. Everyone was supposed to keep the peace, but at the end of the show a local for $55 broke a bottle and caused a disturbance. The Chicago police threw everyone out because they had never done anything like it.

On the outskirts of St. Louis, the first time an electric light game joined a carnival, a five-pointed star with many lights was displayed, each light being numbered, and the winner getting a pound of Maxwell House coffee. Spending three hours watching the wheel from a safe vantage point and writing down the numbers as they showed up, and discovering that they ran on a system, which even the owner didn't know, I won $65 worth of coffee for $5 and being kicked out of the show grounds.

My contract cancelled with Rube Bernstein's Cuddling Cuties because I did. Assisting J. C. Flippen in Ed Daley's 'Broadway Brevities' at $50 a week. Three weeks before the show closed discovering they were unable to get anybody else and they needed me for bits. I struck for a $50 raise, but settled for half. Later on the 'Co.' with J. C. Flippen & Co. in vaudeville—being paid off in soft colors. That night at a local burlesque hotel, awakening Mr. Flippen by placing a ring-tailed monkey on his heaving chest. ... Still a punk.

Supporting Clark & McCullough in Phil Goodman's 'The Ramblers,' and writing in my own part—a ham actor crashing the movies. Stopping the show at the out-of-town opening, but at future performances, taking bows in the lobby at 11.15 p.m.

Hired by Texas Guinan to open at the old 300 Club, but unable to pass the doorman at night to get in. Finally getting through and finding Guinan's so crowded that when a woman fainted it took her an hour and a half to fall down.

Singing 'Roll 'Em Girls. Roll 'Em.' a terrific parody in "Bunk of 1926" about Peaches Browning and Daddy at the Broadhurst Theatre. The fright discovering them in the first row, only to have them take a bow at the end of the number!

Traveling to Newark to a $15 club date and being stopped by Rufus Le Maire to go into George Sweet's part in "Betty Lee." (George Sweet had gone into Ha' Skel's part, as Shelley probably wanted to be paid.) Playing role on hour's notice with club agent threatening to run me out of show business if I did. Singing a love duet with Madeline Cameron and discovering that in musical comedy the orchestra plays a pitch note till ready—but this punk started singing immediately on note—and with what results!

With Genevieve Tobin to open at the old 300 Club, but unable to pass the doorman at night to get in. Finally getting through and finding Guinan's so crowded that when a woman fainted it took her an hour and a half to fall down.

LOUIS SOBOL

Famous columnist of the New York Evening Journal, was born in New Haven, Conn., thirty-five years ago. Was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Motor Transport Corps during the war. Has been a newspaper man ever since. The only Broadway columnist with a mustache—doesn't wear spats, or cane, but has his nails manicured because it is the only chance he has to get some sleep. Writes his column between 4 and 6 in the afternoon—then does the rounds of Premieres and night clubs, reaching his home in Elmhurst, L. I., in the wee small hours of the morning. Is married, and has a daughter.
Every Sunday evening at 9 o'clock, LUDWIG BAUMANN presents Louis Sobol's "VOICE OF BROADWAY" over station WOR, featuring a galaxy of Broadway's favorite stars. Merle Johnston's Orchestra furnishes the delightful dance tunes. Paul Small is tenor soloist.

BASIL RUYSDAEL
Announcer of the Ludwig Baumann Program. A Cornell graduate. Sang for eight years in the Metropolitan Opera before entering the Radio field.

MERLE JOHNSTON
Born in Canada, the son of Captain and Mrs. George Johnston, Salvation Army workers, Merle received his initial musical training while learning to play the instruments of the Army band at street meetings. He worked his way through college with his saxophone and graduated as an electrical engineer. This early training in the electrical field has been of great help to him in developing more perfect broadcast music.
Has been introducing "Amos and Andy, in person" to millions of fans since that famous pair made their first broadcast.

Here are the real "Ruby Taylor and Madam Queen" in the persons of Mrs. Freeman F. Gosden and Mrs. Charles J. Correll.

AMOS 'n' ANDY
As Bill Hay would say, "Here they are"—Freeman F. Gosden (Amos) and Charles J. Correll (Andy) as they would look if you met them outside of the studio. They first went on the air in 1926 as "Sam and Henry" on a small radio station. In 1928 they stepped into their present names and their sketch was supplied to thirty-eight small stations on phonograph records. Then came their tie-up with N. B. C. which is probably the outstanding radio success.

BILL HAY

enjoys being a "know nothing" and is happiest when playing four or five characters at one broadcast.

ANDY... or Andrew H. Brown, President of the Fresh Air Taxicab Corporation of America Incorporated.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
RADIO has become FINE FURNITURE

In the early days of Radio, little thought was given to the type of cabinet into which the manufacturer built his set. All effort was put into improving reception, eliminating static, and interference. Today, with those earlier mechanical difficulties completely overcome, the modern electric set makes its appearance in many types of cabinets, each styled to harmonize with the furniture of some authentic period.

In addition, Ludwig Baumann has designed a number of pieces of standard furniture such as desks, tables and secretaries into which you can have mounted any standard radio chassis. This makes it possible for you to have a real custom-made radio to fit into your decorative scheme.

Whether you want a standard cabinet model, or a set in a special piece of furniture, you should visit one of the Ludwig Baumann radio departments, where you can select your Radio by comparison, from the hundreds of makes and models on display. And remember, Ludwig Baumann will give you a liberal allowance for your old radio in exchange for a new model. Then you can arrange to pay-out-of-income with only a small deposit, and a year to pay the balance.
Announcers...

A handsome lot of young men, often heard, but seldom seen. Haven't you often wondered what they looked like? Well, here they are.

KELVIN KEECH taught the Prince of Wales how to play the ukelele. He was born in Honolulu, married a Russian waitress during the war.

JAMES WALLINGTON handsome announcer who's popularity is due to his charm and ability to handle special events and ad lib on broadcasts.

FORD BOND comes from the Blue Grass State. He has a pleasing tenor voice. His parents are still living and he has two brothers.

JOHN S. YOUNG attended Yale University, where he was a classmate of Rudy Vallee. He began his radio career in a New England station.

MILTON CROSS formerly a church choir singer. His most popular broadcasts are the "Children's Hour" and "Slumber Hour."

GEORGE HICKS hails from Tacoma, Washington. He assists on many of the important broadcasts of sporting events as well as studio programs.

GRAHAM McNAMEE still packs a wallop with his announcing. He won immediate fame as an announcer in 1924 and has headed the list ever since.

EDWARD THORGERSEN is 26 years old, tall, and handsome. He may be heard any evening on the big commercial programs.

LEE CRONICAN comes from Washington, D. C. He joined WOR's staff last December.

JOHN GAMBLING fought with the English army during the World War. After that he became a wireless operator in the merchant marine.

RADIO presents a
VAUDEVILLE SHOW
in Six Star Acts

SISTERS of the SKILLET

Edward East and Ralph Dumke hail from the Middle West and have become a helping pair to which many hundreds of harassed housewives have turned for help and enjoyment.

BRAD BROWNE and AL LLEWELYN

Stirring, mixing and boiling down a great potpourri of songs and laughter. Brad Browne is also creator of the “Nit Wits.” He was once put out of a Y. M. C. A. dormitory for causing, with his antics, the same uproarious laughter that he now receives a sizeable salary to produce.

MILLER and
LYLES (below)

Long ago, Miller & Lyles attained fame as vaudeville comedians from coast to coast. Their entry into the realm of broadcasting has been equally successful.

COLONEL STOOPNAGEL
and BUDD

Several years ago, two attache's of radio station WMAK at Buffalo were called upon a moment’s notice to fill in a program. Their hastily made up comedy was so successful that they were given a permanent place on the program. Their fame spread to the big chain stations where they now fill an important part of the program. F. Charles Taylor takes the part of “Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagel,” and Willard Budd Hulick is “Budd”.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
WEBER and FIELDS

For over fifty years these famous comedians have been entertaining the American Public in vaudeville theatres from coast to coast. The characters of “Mike and Meyer” were almost a myth that only our parents and grandparents had the privilege of knowing until radio snatched this memory of the past and brought it to life in the act that is now making Weber and Fields as famous to radio fans as their vaudeville act was to theatregoers in the days of Koster & Beils.

Weber and Fields made their first appearance on the stage as black-face comedians at the old Bowery Music Hall. The act was not well received so it was taken off, but the manager gave them a chance to reappear as a Dutch Comedy act, which won immediate approval and placed Weber and Fields among the foremost entertainers.

The GOLDBERGS

The success of this program is credited to Gertrude Berg, who is the originator, writer and creator of the character, Molly Goldberg. The part of Jake is played by James R. Waters a veteran actor who played in “Abie’s Irish Rose.” Sammy and Rosie are played by Alfred Corn and Rosalyn Silver who made their radio debut with Children’s Hour.

A Double Test for Every Radio . . .
Backed by a Written Guarantee

Every radio set is thoroughly tested by Ludwig Baumann radio engineers for mechanical correctness as soon as it is received from the manufacturer. Only sets that meet our rigid standards are accepted. That is why, no matter what set you may select, you are assured of perfect radio reception — backed by our guarantee.

Your set is delivered by one of our service cars, and properly installed by a radio mechanic. The installation includes the voltage control device which keeps the flow of current standard and tends to eliminate tube troubles.

Then your radio passes its second test—in actual receiving conditions in your home—so that you may be sure of flawless reception.

Only an organization as tremendous as Ludwig Baumann can give you such service.

Our Radio School . . .

. . . a completely equipped classroom in charge of a radio expert where all our radio salesmen are taught the fundamentals of radio. When you ask them for advice, you can depend on the correctness of their information.

GRANTLAND RICE
is one of the country's best known sports writers, his articles appearing in the leading magazines and newspapers from coast to coast. His talks on current sports are brought to you weekly over a large chain.

SOPHIE TUCKER
"The Last of the Red Hot Mammas" won enthusiastic acclaims all last season in London. With the passing of the old and the coming of the new Sophie remains first in the hearts of her countrymen in radio.

FLOYD GIBBONS
Has been hunting headlines and capturing them for over twenty years. He lost that eye while reporting the battle of Belleau Wood from the trenches. He retired from newspaper work in 1928, after a career that took him through every known part of the globe.

RUSS COLUMBO
Tall, dark, handsome—and unmarried. He is one of radio's best dressed men. Hails from Calistoga, Cal., where he started his career as a violinist. When fourteen he was playing solos in the Imperial Theatre in San Francisco. However, his mellow baritone won out.

FORD FRICK
Comes from the Hoosier State. After graduating from college in Indiana he went to Colorado where he taught high school and played semi-professional baseball. Frick and his thirteen-year-old son are keen disciples of all sports.

RUTH ETTING
Ruth was born on a farm near David City, Neb., and used to imitate the various sounds made by the birds and fowl around the farm so well that she was called upon to give her imitations at many church socials. Now she is one of Mr. Ziegfeld's brightest stars.
PAUL WHITEMAN and his BAND

Organizing his first band in San Francisco, the “King of Jazz” has won fame and fortune. He has had under his direction, as many as thirty-five orchestras at one time. He was born in Denver, Colorado, where his father directed a conservatory of music.

COON-SANDERS

That danceable band heard from the “New Yorker” is directed by Carleton Coon and Joe Sanders formerly of Kansas City. Joe is the ever smiling blues singing fellow at the piano and “Coonie” bangs away at the drums.

BEN BERNIE

After several years at Columbia University, Bernie decided to take his fiddle and go into vaudeville. Here he teamed up with Phil Baker and they played vaudeville theatres from 1910 until the war separated them. Then Ben took up the baton and from it comes the finest of dance music also breezy pungent wisecracks.

DANCE MUSIC
by FAMOUS BANDS

JACK DENNY
The Prince of Wales appointed Jack Denny and his orchestra "his own" on his last visit to Canada. Four years ago Jack Denny and his boys were filling in on several local stations. Today we hear them from the Mount Royal Club, Montreal.

VINCENT LOPEZ
Started broadcasting in 1921 and his famous "Lopez Speaking" is remembered by every veteran radio fan. Vincent started studying to be a priest, but gave that up to enter business. Directed a small band in a cabaret until Pat Rooney, the actor, discovered him.

WILL OSBORNE . . .
popularized the slow, soft music for which he is noted. His first orchestra was made up of musicians he had heard play in various theatres.

The LOMBARDO BROTHERS
Guy Lombardo insists that each member of his orchestra be a Canadian and, just to be sure, he is fast filling it up with members of his own family. Here are the four Lombardo boys, Lebert, Victor, Guy, and Carmen.

LARRY FUNK
The son of skilled musicians, Larry has a natural aptitude for tunes and a memory that contains many more than the thousand melodies he boasts of.
Here are just a few of the many prominent artists who appeared in the Ludwig Baumann hours last year. The complete roster of our guest stars reads like a "Who’s Who on Broadway." This season our broadcast is headed by that famous columnist Louis Sobol who knows Broadway in and out. He brings you the latest gossip and also introduces...

THE MANN HOUR

the guest star of the evening. Merle Johnston's orchestra enters upon its third season with us, playing those delightful dance tunes which have made him so popular. Hayton and Schutt, that versatile team, play lively piano selections. Paul Small, tenor soloist, tells you the words while you dance to the Music. Basil Ruysdael announces the program.
CLARA, LU and EM

Here they are, those three young girls from the Middle West, who are becoming so popular on their nightly broadcasts. These girls first brought life to the characters of Clara, Lu and Em in their sorority house at the University of Michigan, from whence they came to the radio world.

ARE YOU LISTENIN’? . . .

. . . says Tony Wons as he introduces Morton Downey and Jacques Renard in their quarter hour of delightful songs and music. Tony Wons is also famous for his morning program, “Tony’s Scrap Book.” He started his famous Scrap Book while convalescing in a hospital after the war.

THE JESTERS

Wamp Carlson, Guy Bonham and Dwight Latham all celebrate their birthdays on the twenty-fourth of the month. They were formerly insurance clerks in Hartford, Conn. This trio write the dialogue for their broadcasts and play fourteen instruments between them.

THE THREE BAKERS

Ye goode olde spirit of '76 in the person of the “Three Bakers,” Jack Parker, first tenor, Frank Luther, second tenor, and Darrel Woodyard, baritone are heard in songs and sketches each Sunday evening accompanied by music of Billy Artz’s orchestra.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio’s Best
LANDT TRIO and WHITE

This is that “Old Gang of Yours.” You remember the boys who used to hang out on the corner and put “Sweet Adeline,” and “Down by the Old Mill Stream” to close harmony. Carl, Jack and Dan Landt do the singing, and Howard White accompanies on the piano. Their favorite corner was in Scranton, Pa., until they migrated to New York, where they received instant recognition at the N.B.C. Studios. They appear on several large programs, but probably their best known broadcast is “on the 8:15.” All of the boys are single, and all live together in a home that is wired like a studio for the purpose of rehearsing. Howard White is unable to read a note of music, but is matchless as an accompanist.

The BOSWELL SISTERS

Smiling at you are Connie, Vet and Martha. Eight years ago they made their first broadcast in their home town, New Orleans, and they have been at it ever since. Besides their radio program, the Boswell Sisters have attained great success in Vaudeville.

PHILLIPS H. LORD who is to "Sunday at Seth Parker's" what Brown is to "Real Folks," knows more about New England life than possibly any other radio actor. He has seen the rural resident "all dressed up in his Sunday clothes," and he has lived with him at home. It is the home-life that Lord attempts to portray in his "Seth Parker" presentations. He writes the hymns that are a part of each broadcast, as well as the manuscript.

ARTHUR ALLEN is a widely known radio actor coming to radio after a stage career. He appears in Soconyland Sketches and the "Stebbins Boys" as well as many other broadcasts.

PARKER FENNELLY a native of Maine, takes the part of John in the "Stebbins Boys," and has also appeared in many other sketches with Mr. Lord and Mr. Allen.
GENE and GLENN
These boys reigned supreme at station W T A M, Cleveland, before selling their wares at N.B.C. Gene Francis Carroll was born in Chicago and Glen Rowell is from Pontiac, Mich. Both have had lots of experience in vaudeville and musical comedy. They met in Cincinnati at Station W L W.

BREEN and DeROSE
May Singhi Breen, “The Ukelele Lady” and Peter DeRose, pianist and song writer, have been entertaining radio fans for over seven years, and rank among the real old timers on the air. They met in the studio, and after several years of broadcasting together, they decided to team up permanently and get married. Their’s is a real radio romance.

SNOOP and PEEP
Those “demon dee-tec-a-tives” are Charles Finan and Paul Winkopp, recently recruited from “three a day.” Winkopp also had a turn at banking while Finan sailed the high seas as an able bodied seaman.

THE MILLS BROTHERS

These boys have had the fastest rise to success in radio history. They are John, 21; Herbert, 19; Harry, 18; and Donald, 17; of Piqua, Ohio. Veteran musicians and orchestra leaders refused to believe that with only their voices they could simulate such musical instruments as the tuba, clarinet, saxophone and trombone. Yet nothing but a guitar accompanies the singing of the Mills brothers.

Little Jack Little  Often known as the “speakeasy baritone.” His real name is John Leonard, who when broadcasting sings close into the microphone with his peculiar voice, half talk and half melody.

Lillian Roth  Stage and screen star has conquered a new field for herself in that of radio. Her rendition of popular songs are unique and appealing. She is best remembered for her part in “The Vagabond King”. Miss Roth was recently married to a very handsome aviator.

Lowell Thomas  An adventurer and explorer of distant lands. He has written sixteen novels which are as interesting as his news chats.

Ann Leaf  This little lady, an organist, makes about fifteen broadcasts a week, including the dreaming Nocturne program every night at bedtime.

Bing Crosby  A handsome crooning baritone of twenty-seven years has appeared in many theatres throughout this country, Mexico and Canada since 1926.

Sylvia Froos  “Who is Sylvia?” Well let me tell you she is that charming Miss of seventeen years who sings three nights a week over W J Z. Smilingly, she will tell you, next to singing popular songs she likes best her little brown Scotty dog.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dixon, and their son, David, who was the inspiration for the broadcast, "Raising Junior."

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR at WJZ
A regular Sunday morning feature, at which Milton Cross, the N.B.C. announcer is Master of Ceremonies.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio's Best
"THE STREET SINGER"
ARTHUR TRACY was born in Philadelphia. Studied architecture at the University of Pennsylvania, but his parents admitted that as an architect he was destined to be a singer and they permitted him to enroll in the Curtis Institute of Music.

"TED WEEMS"
Ted and his syncopators by popular demand have been holding forth at Steel Pier at Atlantic City. He has held many important theatre and hotel engagements.

"GEORGE JESSEL"
Like Eddie Cantor and Walter Winchell he started on his successful career in Gus Edward's revue twenty-five years ago. He not only selects his own clothes but goes with his family when they select theirs, including his wife.

FRANK HAZZARD
After Frank graduated from the U. of C. he became an undertaker. Soon found more enjoyment in radio broadcasting. After a few months at Station KFI Los Angeles, he came east. May be heard nightly at the Hollywood Restaurant.

"WAYNE KING"
Wayne is the personification of versatility; in addition to wielding an agile baton and playing the "sax", he turns in a good game of golf and can fly an airplane like a veteran.

"SINGIN' SAM"
A survivor of the romantic minstrel days. He has appeared with Coburn's Greater Minstrels and Al. G. Field's Minstrels. Sam once partnered with Frank Tinney. He has no fixed program, though the old fashioned songs are nearest to his heart.

"NICK LUCAS"
Travelled over three thousand miles to fame. That is he left his home town in Newark for Hollywood where he sang his way into talking pictures. Oh! yes, while in London he taught the Prince of Wales how to play the guitar.

LUDWIG BAUMANN—For Radio's Best
Due to a new ruling, newspapers no longer list radio programs under the sponsor's name. This often makes it difficult to identify a program in the regular newspaper listings. We have therefore provided this convenient schedule for you to fill in with your favorite program.
